You probably have noticed that Truecaller gives information about the number after the end of the call. For most people, that's an annoying pop-up. Right? You may have also tried to Disable After Call Details. But you weren't able to disable it because you didn't find any settings to do that. Well, today I'm going to guide you on how to disable after-call details that just appear after the end of the call. In most cases, the second it pop-ups you feel very annoying. It looks exactly like in the picture above (Thumbnail). Although it really makes sense as it provides instant information about the number. But in most cases, it is not helpful. Well, you can disable it within a few clicks. Let us show you how.

About After Call Details of Truecaller Truecaller is an app that helps with caller-identification, call-blocking, call-recording, flash-messaging, and more. One of its features is caller-identification that helps users find details about incoming phone numbers. Whether the incoming phone number is saved on your phone or not, Truecaller will find details from its huge database and display the useful information i.e Phone number address, the owner name of the number, etc. To manage the after-call details of Truecaller you can go to settings>Caller ID. How to Disable After Call Details of Truecaller You can disable after-call details of Truecaller. But in order to do that, you must have the latest version of Truecaller installed on your phone. You can check and update to its latest version from Google Play Store. So, just head over to the Play Store>My apps & games>update Truecaller (if available). If there is no update available for you then you are good to go. Here is the step by step process to disable After call details of Truecaller that just appear after the end of the call: Open the Truecaller app on your phone and then click on the three dots icon on the top right. After that, you will see a few options. Just click on the Settings option. Under the settings, click on the Caller ID option. There you will find the "Show After Call Details" option enabled. Just disable that! Now you won't see the after-call details popup after the end of the call by the Truecaller app. If you find this too hard to do then there is another simple method to disable it. Just click and hold the Truecaller app until the options appear and then drag it to "App info". Go to the notifications section and toggle off all options. This will revoke all notifications permission for Truecaller. Done. That's is how you can disable After Call details of Truecaller. Following these steps will absolutely disable after call details of Truecaller. Now you can enjoy your calling without call-info pop-up bombardment. Read More: How to do High-Quality Calls (Video & Voice) in WhatsApp Conclusion Truecaller app is really useful for all the users but not all the features are helpful, especially "Show after call details for phonebook contacts". However, we do recommend using it if you receive a lot of calls from unknown numbers as it will help you instantly see the unknown number details once the call is ended. Every phone user's requirement is different so if you don't want to have a call detail popup after the end of the call then you can follow the above procedure to disable that. For some users, disabling the after-call details option won't work. In that case, it is recommended to try revoking the notification permission for Truecaller. Also, if you merely want to disable the after call details then disable "preview in pop-ups" under the notifications settings of Truecaller. How does Truecaller show caller ID before calls? Written by Shubham Sharma Apr 11, 2022, 09:38 pm 2 min read Truecaller unveils its secret to advance caller IDs. Truecaller has been blowing people's minds ever since the leading caller ID platform came out in 2009. The mobile app now also shows caller IDs before the call actually connects. However, not many people understand just exactly how Truecaller manages to make that work. Several have also called upon the Swedish company to explain how does its system work. Well, we have an answer. As many of you may have already noticed, Truecaller shows a caller ID alert saying "incoming call by" followed by the name of the caller. The notification pops up around 3-4 seconds before the call actually connects and the phone starts ringing for the user to answer. This has led many to wonder how exactly Truecaller knows who is going to call in advance. In a blog post, Truecaller explained the case by saying that the "caller alert before calls connect" feature works by sending an alert to the recipient (Truecaller user) by using the mobile data/Wi-Fi of the caller (another Truecaller user). "Since data/Wi-Fi is faster than a regular cellular network, the notification reaches you first, before the actual call comes through," the company added. In its explanation, Truecaller added that the advance alert with caller ID eventually helps users decide what to do with a call that's about to come. Users can determine if the caller is important enough to be answered or they can choose to put the phone on silent. So, basically, it saves you from the mess of dealing with unwanted callers. Security still remains a point of question While the feature appears to be working well and helping several Truecaller users and the company claims it's fully secure, its backend working remains completely unclear and we can't be completely sure about how secure it is. The company has been involved in a number of security-related matters, including a case where Truecaller users' data was found on sale on the dark web. If you are not convinced, Truecaller says that the feature—which requires notification permissions to work—can also be disabled by simply blocking the app from sending notifications via phone settings. How to disable notification from blocked calls and messages in Truecaller Truecaller is a Caller ID and Spam Blocking app. It is one of the most popular apps which helps you in identifying calls from unknown numbers, blocking calls, and avoiding spammers. However, sometimes you get irritated with the notifications from the blocked calls and messages and want to get rid of the notifications. You can install Truecaller on your device and use it in your phone to resolve the mystery of apparently unknown callers by a single click. Here is a step-by-step guide you can follow to disable notification from blocked calls and messages: If you are tired of seeing notifications from blocked calls/messages do the following: Launch the Truecaller app on your phone and then tap on the menu Now tap on Settings Then tap on Block Screen Finally, Toggle off. How to block the spam calls: Tap on the profile picture in the upper left corner Tap on 'Settings' Tap on 'Top spammers' and toggle it on. A contact named "SPAM" will now be created in your phone book and your screen will flash in red when a number in that list is calling you. You can check the Caller ID of the person who is calling you, even if the number has not been saved on your phone book. Truecaller also helps you in getting details of unknown numbers. You can even track down the scam calls. READ: Teachers Day 2020: Let's show gratitude towards all the teachers, gurus & mentors, quotes and wishes. Posted by Animesh Bhardwaj It's a common Android issue wherein the screen doesn't turn on or wake up with incoming calls. The phone still keeps ringing but to check who's calling, you will have to unlock the phone, open the dialer app and then go to the ongoing call. (📞📞📞📞📞📞) We have noticed this issue on some phones before. A simple Google search reveals that a few of the previous generation Android phones have had the issue, especially the Android One models. Page Contents: ALSO READ: How to post Instagram photos and videos through PC/Laptops Solved: Screen not turning on with incoming calls Method 1 Step 1: Go to Dialer or Phone app settings. To do so, you can either go to main settings, then open 'Apps', and then scroll down to Dialer or Phone App. To access the App Info page, you may long press the App icon, and then tap the App info option or the small 'i' label in the corner. Step 2: Now select the "App notifications" option. Step 3: Now if App notifications are turned off, your display won't wake up when someone calls you. Also if only the "Incoming calls" permission is off, your screen will not light up with incoming calls. Step 4: Now tap on incoming calls and change the priority to urgent (Make sound and pop on screen) Make sure the required permissions are turned on and your issue will be fixed. On Android Nougat-based phones, the option is listed as Phone under permissions as is shown in the image below. The options may differ based on a particular custom UI on your phone. But all you need to do is go to the App info page of the 'Phone' app and grant it the necessary notification permissions. You probably denied the permission when first prompted and perhaps that's the reason why you are facing the issue. Method 2: (For Android Pie-based Phones) If you have Android 9.0 Pie-based software on your phone, you can follow these steps (Courtesy of our reader Charlie) Step 1: Go to App Info of the Phone Dialer app and tap on Notifications. Step 2: Tap on the 'Incoming Calls' option and then on behavior. Tap on 'incoming calls' Step 3: Now tap on 'Behaviour'. Tap on 'Behavior' Step 4: Ensure that the notification priority is set to urgent or "Make sound and pop up". Tap on: 'Make sound and pop-up on screen' Method 3: (For Android 10-based phones) Most Android 10 phones that we have tested have the proper notification option locked by default. If your Android 10 phone is facing the issue, here's what you need to do: Step 1: Go to the App Info page of the Dialer app (either from Settings-> app or long-press the app icon) Step 2: Tap on 'Notifications', and then on 'Incoming calls'. Step 3: Ensure that your incoming calls are marked as important and urgent. Method 4: (For Android 11-based phones) There isn't a whole lot different to do here. You just have to go to the App Info section of the Phone/Dialer app. Press the app icon and click on the (i) icon for that. Thereafter click on Notifications and ensure All Phone Notifications are turned on. Then, press on the Incoming Calls option and turn on 'Override Do Not Disturb' and other options as shown in the screenshots above. Next up, go to the Apps and Notifications option in the main device Settings, and then press on the Advanced option> Special App Access option> Display Over Other Apps, and ensure Phone is Allowed. That's all. ALSO READ: How to use Google Pay to Split Bills & Other Expenses Let us know in the comments which of the aforementioned methods did the trick for you. Besides these methods, sometimes, a simple reboot of the device, or clearing the cache, data, and app preferences can solve any minor issues.
